When our art director, Luda, first proposed the photo that now appears on our cover, I said, "Love it!" then sat wondering aloud what a card carrying that image might say. I could see the spry little gymnast filled with goodness and mischief that Luda must have been growing up in Tajikistan when she said, "Maybe it can say what I sense that little girl is whispering. 'I love that my secrets are safe with you.'" And so it does, one of the 50 NEW! products waiting here for you.

It's no secret that we thoroughly love what we do at Cardthartic, and we hope you feel the same: very fortunate to see the best of humanity in your stores every day! We imagine Retail Partner Patricia Bruno of The Winged Rabbit in Haverhill, MA, could be speaking for many of you when she said, "Through years of change, what has remained the same is our philosophy: to create a personalized and friendly shopping experience, provide quality local art and crafts as well as fair-trade items from across the globe, and to treat every customer as a friend."

One of those friends wrote us to say, "I can't quite decide what I love more: seeing and feeling the cards in the store and picking out just the 'right' ones; opening the shopping bag and having a look again when I get home; or actually writing in them while thinking about the people who will be receiving them?!? I love it all! And every new card release, I excitedly wait to see which ones my favorite store will carry and that I will purchase." Amen!

Mon-Fri 8 am – 5 pm CST

An always-cheerful Sales Coordinator will gladly answer any questions or concerns you may have.

Free Branded Fixtures

With pockets custom-made to hold our 4.5" x 6.75" cards exclusively, our fixtures are all FREE when you purchase product to fill them. FREE corner pockets can be added at any time to expand pockets while keeping the same footprint.

100% Exchange Policy

For the sake of our business and yours, we ask that — with every reorder — you replace your slower-movers with designs that may turn faster. Credits are immediately applied to the reorder.

Buy-out Credit

When you wish to replace another manufacturer's slower-moving card lines with Cardthartic, we credit your account $3 for each pocket you convert.

Great Reps + Online Ordering

There is no substitute for the industry knowledge and service provided by a great rep! If you also wish to browse and order after hours, you may register for a cardthartic.com online account via the Retailer Entrance on our home page.

In It Together

At cardthartic.com check-out, we ask Cardies to name their favorite local Cardthartic merchant. When someone names you, half that sale is credited to your account, and your Rep earns commission, too.

Made in the USA

You can assure your customers that Cardthartic always has and always will be made in America. For 30 years now, we've printed and shipped from Champaign, IL.

Recycled Paper + Soy Ink

Paper certified by Forest Stewardship Council and Sustainable Forestry Initiative.

BEYOND BIRTHDAYS!

David Puett

At Cardthartic, we regularly receive phone calls and emails from caring Cardies saying something like, “You have some of the coolest cards and I think that, if so many we like didn't say Happy Birthday inside, they could be used for other occasions. Take care, ole David Puett”

I've heard that from my wise brother, Mike, at least 10,000 times over the years, and while I could not agree more, the frustrating fact is, more than 60% of the time, people are searching for birthday cards. It bugs me, too, to have to cross through “Happy Birthday” to make a card it into a great Thinking of You. My lovely friend Lili put it more pointedly, “I don't want to see Happy Birthday printed in a card ever. By leaving it out, you give me something to write! And my handwritten ‘Happy Birthday’ makes the words feel more genuine and personal, too.”

So when you see NEW! birthday cards throughout this Big Book, you may notice many are sans “Happy Birthday.” While the cards may still be designated Birthday on their backs and the racks, we've left those two little words to the sender to pen – or not – so those designs are decidedly more versatile. Just ask David, Mike, or Lili!

MAD ABOUT BILL

Madeline Stockbridge

By virtue of Madeline writing the loving message on the new anniversary card to the right, she has officially become a Contributing Cardie. Cool thing is, Mad has always contributed such a lot to the Cardie Community!

She lets us publish her very touching and informative stories about her challenging cancer journey, and is regularly featured in our Great Cardie Quote of the Week. She never misses our MWF Cardie Yoga classes via Zoom, and makes a point of leaving an always-meaningful comment on every single Cardie Newsletter. The sweet thing about the new card, is that – on its back – Mad dedicated it, “To my extraordinary husband of 52 years, Bill.”

She explained, “I’ve always loved sending cards so much because I love receiving them, and I find myself hanging on to the ones that particularly touch me. My kind husband could never really understand my drive to send cards ... until he read the many I received after my first cancer surgery, and saw what they meant to me. Now, Bill’s the first to say, ‘We need to send a card!’

“After all these happy years together, Bill will walk in with the mail and I’ll say, ‘Anything good?’ and he’ll know just what I mean.”

milemarkers

On this great highway of life, they're known as birthdays. And no matter how impressive the mileage, what counts more is the people we meet along the way, the lives we touch, fun we have, and memories we make.

Just keep on truckin!
Happy Birthday

cards

A card!
In the mail!
That we can open when we find a quiet moment to ourselves. A card! That is not a bill or some other reminder of how challenging life can be sometimes. A Card! That expects nothing in return. Just delivering love and support, pure and simple.

I hope you began feeling the love at the sight of your name
on the envelope!

whales

What a better world this would be if we were all more like them. Always smiling, singing, able to let one side of their brain rest while the other stays active. Whales look out for one another. And above all, they are massively kind.

Today and every day,
bless that whale
of a heart you have.

yard work

Pity the people who dread it, for they know not what immense pleasure it sows.
Weeding, planting, mulching.
All is right with the world
while diggin' in the dirt!

Wishing you an
all flowers, no weeds
kinda day.

pandas

People are such fans of these uniquely adorable beings because they have so many of the qualities we love in our own friends and families.
Cheerful, playful, peaceful,
they have eyes that see all ...
and love us anyway!

And just like you,
they're big huggers, too!
Appreciating You

magic lamps

Long ago
in a faraway land,
a young man wished
for more, more, more.
Here's the rub:
Only from age, wisdom,
and experience does one learn the trick to magic is
"Be careful what you wish for!"

You got this.
Best Wishes

strawberries

Even though they all
may appear perfectly delicious, we still find ourselves looking for the one that stands out from all the rest.
The one meant for us.

I'd pick you every time.
Wishing You a Birthday
Sweet & Juicy!

watering cans

What a wonderful metaphor
for the beauty of true friends.
In the garden of give and take,
at times we're the water
and at others the seedling,
taking turns nourishing
each other to grow
and flower.

To you,
and another long
season of friendship.
Happy Birthday

rocking horses

As kids, we loved riding
these sweet, sturdy steeds
with their soothing rhythm.
There were none of life's twists
and turns or rough terrain.
We'd simply trust, hang on,
and enjoy the ride.

Keep rocking
and rolling!
Happy Birthday

11:11

Filled with magic and meaning, it's said that when we notice the time is exactly 11:11, it's a sign from the universe that we're on our right path.

This year, may your path be filled with love, joy, and sense of purpose.
Happy Birthday

kites

Watching them dance in the wind can bring back some of our best childhood memories. The anticipation, the joy, the exhilaration, and satisfaction ... all in our very own hands.

May your heart be filled with wonder and your dreams always soar.
Happy Birthday

They're the perfect paradox! Game nights can be as tense as they are relaxing, building camaraderie as well as rivalry. We win some, we lose some, and no matter how bright we may be, there are times we feel utterly clueless.

Hey, we'll celebrate the day you were born, but that doesn't mean we're gonna let you win!
Happy Birthday

Life is made better with this sweet nectar. Rich in nutrients, honey is believed to promote better health, along with more pleasure, wisdom, abundance, strength, and love.

Wishing you a year drizzled with sweetness and buzzing with joy.
Happy Birthday

hourglasses

Since 1400 BC, they've helped us see and reflect on the passage of time. Beautiful hourglasses can remind us that some of life's best moments are exactly that. Moments.

Here's to making each one count.
Happy Birthday

peaches

They're considered a sacred symbol of longevity because their soft skin and juicy goodness hold so many nutrients that keep us feeling young and healthy.

Wishing you a day dripping with sweetness and a succulent new year.
Happy Birthday

time

There are moments we'd like to last a lifetime, and days we wish would speed by. The wisest among us learns that the best we can do with our time is slow down, look around, and appreciate the beauty of each day.

Wishing you a good, long day to feel loved and appreciated.
Happy Birthday

robins

Best known for their beautiful birdsong, robins are seen as good omens. They lift spirits with their positive energy and show us how to move forward with tenacity and grace.

Wishing you a lovely day surrounded by those who make your heart sing.
Happy Birthday!

birds of paradise

With their uncommon grace and elegance, these striking tropical flowers look like they're taking flight. They symbolize the joy and anticipation of freedom and exploration, and are believed to bring good fortune and a long and colorful life.

To celebrating a new year of soaring to great heights.
Happy Birthday

wrens

They give us the gift of song, singing up to 3,000 ditties a day! Seeing their ability to nestle in anywhere, from wrens we can learn to happily carry on. For even after the darkest nights, the songbird still sings in the morning.

Wishing you a bright new year and a heart filled with song.
Happy Birthday to You

MUCH LOVE AND PRIDE

Last summer, my niece Jennifer sent me fun pics in a text that read, “About to kick off the Pride Parade!” She and her cool husband and pre-teen daughter were marching with other families and colleagues in Columbus, Ohio, because, “It feels like the right thing to do.”

The following day being Father’s Day, I thought of how proud my late dad would be of this granddaughter who had countless other ways to spend her day. And that took me back to a memorable conversation I’d had with Dad, wow, must be 40 years ago now.

As on every Sunday night, he’d called me (on a landline, remember those!?) from his big blue recliner in the Sunshine State, and he asked what was new since we’d spoken the previous week. I said that all I had to report was that my best buddy Ted had told me he wanted to start dating men and that he hoped to find one he could love and feel loved by.

Let me just quick give you a sense of my dad: A born farmer in central Illinois, he had traveled out of the state only twice before retiring to Florida — once for a fishing trip to Minnesota and the other fishing in Arkansas. To my knowledge, he’d read only two books in his adult life: the Bible, and a little paperback titled Grinding It Out, the autobiography of Ray Kroc I’d given him back when my former Chicago PR firm had represented McDonald’s.

While Dad was not worldly, he was mighty wise and kind, so that Sunday night I was not surprised to hear him say, “I’ll hope and pray that Ted meets a nice man, Jo, because he sure has been a good friend to you.”

Like it was yesterday rather than a lifetime ago, I remember telling my dad that I loved his big heart and the way he wished my friend happiness when we both knew there were many people in the world who would choose to condemn Ted for just being true to his good, caring self. “I’ve never understood prejudice or that kind of animosity,” I said. “Dad, tell me honestly, please, do you think you would love any of your kids or grandkids any less if they were gay?” He said, “No, Jo, I can’t say that I would. I might love them more, though.”

Hmm. Not expecting that answer, I asked, “Why is that?” His response was as sad but true today as it was back then. “I’d love them more because it can be a cold, cruel world out there and I suspect they’d need all the love and support they could get.”

Long live Dad’s sense of dignity and pride.

red wine

Long known to be good for the heart, drinking red wine is also reported to help us lose weight, boost our immune systems, reduce bone loss and help prevent forgetfulness.

Like we ever need a reason!

a day at the beach

It can make all our cares feel oceans away. Sun on our shoulders, feet in the sand, cool beverage in hand ... the waves roll in, our thoughts roll out, and all is right with the world again.

Go. If only in your dreams, sit by the shore today.

laughing buddha

Symbolizing happiness & abundance, he is believed to relieve sadness and worry. The word buddha is not actually a title but a type of person, an "awakened one" who demonstrates that ~ by practicing patience, compassion and lovingkindness ~ we can all live the good life.

Long live the laughing buddha in you.

wildflowers

A gift from Mother Nature, they show us that life doesn't always have to grow according to plan to still be beautiful.

bluebird of happiness

Two decades ago it faced extinction when open lands best for nesting grew rare. Happily, caring humans built hundreds of special nesting boxes, enabling the population to rebound in recent years. The bluebird's message for us: Make space for happiness, or it can disappear!

Here's to hearing the bluebird's song, "Enjoy today!"

message in a bottle

Since a Greek philosopher first tossed his into the Mediterranean Sea circa 310 BC, they've symbolized our longing for connection. Whether expressing eternal love, sending a distressed SOS, or encapsulating someone's famous last words, a message in a bottle is bound to be profound.

Ok, perhaps not so profound — and it is BYOB — but this message is filled with love to you from me.

wonder woman

When DC Comics created her back in 1941, it was to show the world that strong powerful women can be the heroine of the story. Like Wonder Woman, we are all born to be the star of our show, and can save the day all on our own.

If the boots fit!

anchors

They remind us that ~ when life's winds blow and seas get stormy ~ we all do best when tied to something solid and true.

Thank you for being my anchor.

cardinals

Brilliant and cheerful,
the sight of them always lifts spirits.
Unlike migratory birds that fly south,
the strong and hardy cardinal sticks winter out, as if to show us that ~ even on life's grayest days ~
there is hope and beauty.

May the sight of this bright guy always cheer you.

knitting

When you hear
those needles clicking,
and see the yarns skimming,
someone is relaxing
into their beautiful
labor of love.

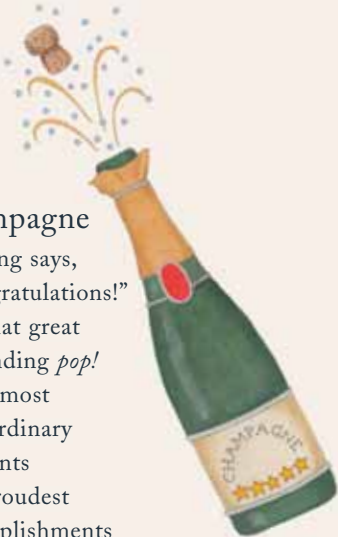

Casting pure love
on you today.

ladybug

A good luck symbol,
it's believed she
first came to earth
by lightning,
sent by the Goddess
of Love
and Beauty.
When she swoops in,
it's to remind us
that life is short,
and not to let worries
cloud a single day.

Here's hoping a little ladybug uses you
as her landing strip
today.

champagne

Nothing says,
"Congratulations!"
like that great resounding pop!
Life's most extraordinary moments
and proudest accomplishments
sparkle even brighter
with a little bubbly.

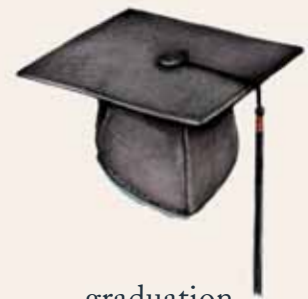

Yay for you!
Congratulations

diplomas

Countless
projects, due dates,
study groups and exams
~ years of growth & learning ~
all tied up in a neat

Congratulations
on all you've done
to earn yours.
Continued success!

graduation

A grand rite of passage,
this time-honored tradition
dates back to 1432 when students at Oxford University blah blah blah

You've surely had enough lectures

wedding cakes

Such a beautiful good luck tradition! Cutting it together represents your first shared task as a married couple, and feeding it to each other signifies your commitment to forever nurture one another.

Wishing you many happy years of sweet love and devotion.

tying the knot

The expression dates back to a 7000-year-old tradition ... when two people planned to wed, their joined hands were tied together in a ceremony signifying the start of a trial marriage. 366 days later, the two would choose to either tie the knot or not!

To happily choosing one another again, and again, and again. Congratulations

wedding rings

The tradition of exchanging rings began in ancient Egypt ... wedding couples braided Nile river reeds into small circles to represent eternity. They chose to wear their rings on the third finger of the left hand because they believed a vein runs from there directly to the heart.

May your love run deeper and longer than the Nile. Congratulations

rockers

Back and forth they go,
with the ease of soulmates.
One talks, the other nods.
Back to the past, forth to the future,
rocking to the rhythm of now.
A lovely way to spend an hour.

A lovely way
to spend a lifetime.
Happy Anniversary

heart lock & key

Symbolizing
trust and commitment,
the heart lock & key reminds us how very precious true love is and encourages us to honor, cherish
and protect it.

It's beautiful to see how committed you are to your love for each other.
Happy Anniversary

bicycle built-for-two

What a perfect metaphor for marriage ...
it looks like it should be non-stop fun,
and yet it's so very challenging!
The trick is to work together to steer two loving hearts
in tandem.

Each with their own horn.
Happy Anniversary

house keys

Whether they're for
our first home,
or just one of many,
for a fixer-upper, or
the house of our dreams,
new keys can turn
an empty space
into our happy place.

Welcome home.

a new home

When filled with love and laughter,
it's the most nurturing place
we can ever hope to be.

Welcome Home.
Congratulations

strollers

angels

We can't see them, but they're always here.

Guiding, protecting, enfolding us in love.

butterflies

We marvel at the strength of these delicate creatures. They're living proof that, from a great deal of darkness and struggle, we will emerge strong and beautiful.

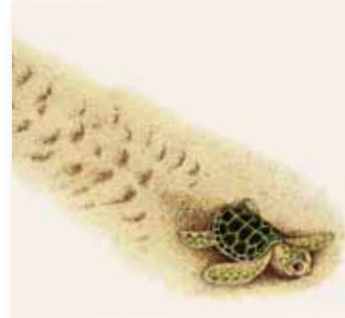

Without challenges, there would be no beautiful butterflies.

willow trees

They show us the way to survive turbulent times: Stand tall, be willing to bend so as not to break with the winds of change, trust your own strength and resilience.

This storm will pass.

sea turtles

They show us the power of believing in ourselves. From the shore where they're born, only 1 of 100 ever makes it to sea. It's not pure luck, drive and ability. It's one little sea turtle sincerely believing.

I believe in you.

breathe

This ancient Sanskrit symbol is a beautiful reminder to do what comes naturally. It's the first thing we do when we come in to this world, and the last thing we do when we leave it.

Just breathe.

succulents

They so beautifully show us that we grow stronger, far more interesting and resilient not in spite of challenges, but thanks to them.

To growing stronger every day.

a good cry

The most loving thing we can ever do is give ourselves permission to feel, letting our hearts be the judge of when we've cried enough tears.

My heart is with you.

recovery

Such a simple little symbol for such a monumental task ... getting one's self back again. It's the brave souls who will admit they need help, and then do the hard work to get there.

Many admire you.

lighting a candle

It's a timeless act of faith, holding another's well-being in our hearts and minds, surrounding them with God's love and light.

You are in my prayers.

lavender

Known to bring grace and good luck, tranquil lavender's gift to us is peace of mind.

May all be well.

chemo

It's a big tough cure for a big bad disease. It's caring so much about life and those you love that you're willing to put yourself through the wringer. It's remembering that, with every passing minute, every day that goes by, you're that much closer to being done ... with cancer.

It's letting those who care do all we can. Because you'd do the same for us.

winged heart

A symbol of optimism and joy, it reminds us that we always have the freedom to rise above. The winged heart encourages us to cherish our own journey, while honoring the steps of others along paths we cannot see.

Blank Inside

the pink ribbon

Breast cancer survivors have said that seeing this symbol of hope being worn bonds them to the wearer in ways they could not have imagined. It instantly conveys that gender, race, nationality, financial status ... none of these things matter. Only, "You and I are united in caring."

BEFRIENDING GRIEF

Weeks after Contributing Cardie Judy Cortner lost her dear friend Eunice, she wrote me this amazing ode to her grief. With Judy's permission to share it, you may find this a keeper, too.

Well, Jodee, grief is living with me now. he has lived with me before. we are old friends, having been companions several times before this. i know his ways.

*i now welcome him.
"hello, friend. come in."
he gives me a hug, sits down and stays for a time.*

in the beginning, he will visit often, sometimes staying the night. he will leave after a bit, but he will always come back.

i realized this time why i stay at home and do not speak on the phone much when he is here. i have a guest and i do not want to leave him alone as we have much to share.

i did go to the coffee shop a couple of days ago and left him to sleep in. he was hurt, as he wants to go with me everywhere. he is like that. i will be in touch when he leaves.

purple hydrangea

Their bouncy blooms in abundance and the warm memories they evoke remind us that true appreciation cannot be expressed deeply or often enough.

Thank you, thank you,
and thank you again.

MC1532

butterflies

We marvel at the strength of these delicate creatures. They're living proof that, from darkness and struggle, we will emerge strong and beautiful.

Without challenges,
there would be no
beautiful butterflies.

MC1509

cardinals

It's said they fly in from the heavens to remind us that the loved ones we've lost are actually around us everywhere, just in joyful new shapes & forms.

MC1470

There are as many ways to say, "Thank you!" as there are reasons to say it.

Thank you for giving me
wonderful reasons
to say it to you.

MC1469

Treasured time spent with our favorite people is never gone, or forgotten.

It's inscribed
in our hearts.

MC1468 ♥

hummingbirds

In them we see the beauty of finding the sweet nectar in our lives, then hovering long enough to simply savor it.

Wishing you a day of sweet savoring.

956

hugs and kisses

It's the loving shorthand we send to someone when - what we truly want - is to be there with real hugs and kisses.

952

hummingbirds

In them we see the beauty of finding the sweet nectar in our lives, then hovering long enough to simply savor it.

951

wonder woman

She shows the world that strong, powerful women can be the heroine of the story, and can save the day all on our own.

950 ♥

cardinals

Strong and hardy, they remind us that, even on life's grayest days, there is beauty and hope.

948 ♥

tree of life

It reminds us to step back and see the sweet miracles of life and our own beautiful part in them.

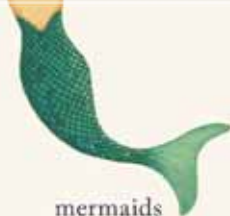

946

rainbows

The universal symbol of hope & promise, they're the prize for weathering the storm. Time and again rainbows assure us that there will be beauty and clarity following times of doubt.

945

mermaids

Symbolizing feminine power, they remind us that we each have a beautiful free spirit deep within us. Long may she swim!

943

sunflowers

With irresistible charm, they show us the beauty of staying connected with what nourishes and sustains us.

934

quilting

It's the art of stitching together little pieces of your heart, soul, talent, vision, using threads of love.

933
